Freedom of Expression in History and in Theory Oxford

The notion of having the freedom of expression was furthered through the 1950 European Convention on Human Rights, the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and was ratified in France in 1975. With the libert d'expression as its main principle, the article was also able to establish some of the other relevant details in which this concept is considered less than absolute. This chapter demonstrates the rhetoric of freedom of expression as shown in the D clARATION.

A Theory of Freedom From the Psychology to the Politics

Freedom in the subject is equated with the person's being fit to be held responsible and to be authorized as a partner in interaction. This book is unique among contemporary approaches - although it is true to the spirit of classical writers like Hobbes and Kant - in seeking a theory that applies to psychological issues of free agency and free will as well as to political issues in the theory
